Summary

Dorothy's care costs have nearly doubled what was budgeted this quarter, with spending reaching $12,135 against a planned $6,681, which is something you'll need to address urgently with BlueBerry Care. The good news is that she's receiving solid support with 122 services delivered, and there have been no hospitalisations in the past year, which suggests the care is keeping her well. The system has flagged 50 low-level concerns, mostly routine matters, but nothing critical that needs immediate action. You should have a conversation with the provider soon to understand why costs have jumped so high and whether this is a temporary spike or reflects a change in Dorothy's care needs that will continue going forward.
