Summary

Dorothy's care with BlueBerry isn't working as it should right now. Out of eight service statements we reviewed, none showed the care was actually delivered as billed, and seven of those eight had concerning irregularities that need to be sorted out. BlueBerry also hasn't responded to our enquiry about these issues, which is frustrating when you're trying to get answers. The good news is there's no financial overcharge here, but the real issue is making sure Dorothy is getting the support she needs and that you're getting honest reporting about what's happening. You'll want to have a direct conversation with BlueBerry's manager about what's going on with service delivery and get them to explain those irregularities.
