Summary

Dorothy's care is running smoothly and she's getting good value from her budget right now, using about half of what's available to her. She's had 88 support visits this quarter with no hospitalisations in the past year, which suggests BlueBerry Care is keeping her well and managing her needs effectively. The system has flagged 71 low-level anomalies, but these are minor variations in routine rather than anything to worry about. The really good news is there are no open concerns sitting unresolved, and Dorothy hasn't needed hospital care, so whatever support she's receiving is working well for her. Keep an eye on whether she's getting everything she needs at this spending level, since there's still room in her budget if her care requirements change.
