Summary

Dorothy's care costs have run significantly over budget this quarter at $12,135, which is nearly double what was allocated, so you'll need to talk urgently with BlueBerry Care about what's driving this increase and whether adjustments are needed going forward. The good news is that she's receiving solid support with 122 services delivered and no current concerns flagged by her care team, plus she's managed to stay out of hospital over the past year which suggests her care is working well overall. There are 50 low-priority anomalies noted in the data, which are likely just minor tracking issues rather than anything serious, but the budget blowout is the main thing to focus on sorting out with her provider as soon as possible.
