Summary

Dorothy is doing really well right now, which is wonderful news for your family. She's using about half of her allocated budget this quarter while receiving regular support with 83 services, suggesting the current care plan is matching her needs without overspending. The good news keeps going: there have been no hospitalisations in the past year and no open concerns flagged by BlueBerry Care, which tells you that Dorothy's care is stable and working. The system did flag 54 low-level anomalies (likely minor variations in scheduling or service delivery), but these aren't urgent issues to worry about. The main thing to focus on is that Dorothy has room in her budget if her needs change, so you have flexibility to increase her support if she ever needs it without waiting for approval.
