

Summary

Nelson's account shows no funding allocated for FY2026, which means there's currently nothing set aside for their care this financial year. While this might be a timing issue with paperwork processing or a recent change to their plan, it's something you'll want to sort out straight away because their support services could be interrupted. The good news is their lifetime cap of nearly $138,000 hasn't been touched yet, so there's still plenty of room in their overall budget once this gets straightened out. I'd suggest checking with your NDIS planner or contact centre to make sure everything's been properly submitted for the new year.
