Summary

Dorothy's care costs have significantly exceeded her quarterly budget at 182%, meaning BlueBerry Care spent more than $5,400 beyond what was allocated for this three-month period. The good news is that she's receiving plenty of support with 122 services delivered, and there have been no hospital visits in the past year, which suggests her care is keeping her well. However, the budget overspend is the key issue here and you'll want to have a conversation with BlueBerry Care about whether this is a one-off situation, if her care needs have genuinely increased, or if there's been a planning error that needs correcting. With no open concerns flagged and her health stable, the priority right now is getting clarity on why costs have jumped so dramatically and what to expect going forward.
