Significant concerns — consider your options

Summary

Dorothy's care with BlueBerry isn't working as it should be, and this needs your urgent attention. Out of eight statements we've reviewed, we found problems in seven of them, which suggests something systematic is going wrong rather than just isolated mistakes. The provider hasn't responded to correspondence about these issues, which is concerning when you're relying on them for your parent's wellbeing. While the financial anomalies aren't costing you money right now, the fact that service delivery is showing zero percent is the real red flag here. We'd recommend having a direct conversation with BlueBerry Care about what's happening, and if things don't improve quickly, you may need to consider other providers.
