Summary

Dorothy is getting good value from her care plan at the moment, using about half of what's been budgeted for her Support at Home services. She's receiving a solid level of support with 83 services this quarter, and it's wonderful that she hasn't needed hospital care in the past year, which suggests her care is working well. The system has flagged some low-level concerns worth keeping an eye on, though nothing urgent right now, so there's no immediate action needed. You're in a good position here, but it might be worth chatting with BlueBerry Care about whether her current plan is meeting all her needs, since there's unused budget that could go towards additional support if she'd benefit from it.
